Daryl Pint Selected to Participate in Leadership Kansas

Daryl Pint, CEO of Ceva Biomune, has been selected for the 2014 Class of Leadership Kansas.

As one of the oldest and most prestigious statewide leadership programs in the country, Leadership Kansas is entering its 36th year of educating and motivating leaders from across Kansas. The program's goal is to inspire individuals to maintain involvement in the social, business and political fabric of Kansas communities.

Each year, close to 600 people are nominated for the program. At the conclusion of a thorough and thoughtful application and selection process, 40 individuals are selected to participate.

"It's humbling to know that I was selected out of so many outstanding leaders who applied. My fellow classmates come from marquee companies," said Pint. "I am looking forward to networking with other business and community leaders and learning new techniques that I can apply at Ceva and in the organizations I belong to."

During the program, the members of the class are exposed to a variety of experts and educational training sessions. The diverse discussion topics include: business, education, public policy, societal health, economics, and government.

"Graduates of the Leadership Kansas program leave with a better understanding of our state and are better equipped to shoulder important leadership responsibilities in their communities and careers," said Steve Johnson (Class of '98), Chairman of the Leadership Kansas Board of Trustees.

The 2014 Program begins in late April with an Orientation Session in Lawrence and ends with a session in Pittsburg in November. The host cities for this year's program are Garden City, Hutchinson/Wichita, Manhattan/Junction City, Kansas City Metro, Hays, and Topeka.

Leadership Kansas alumni include: Former Speaker of the House and current Kansas Chamber President and CEO Mike O'Neal; Former Governor Bill Graves; Insurance Commissioner Sandy Praeger; U.S. Senator Jerry Moran and U.S. Representatives Lynn Jenkins and Kevin Yoder, among others.
